

Katie Woods - 24

People are always so surprised when I tell them what I do for a job. I mean who has a business card that says Bird Supervisor?

I started at the zoo as one of the caretakers in the aviary. I was responsible for feeding the birds, cleaning the exhibits, and doing general checks on the animals every day. Recently I started to get involved with more of the guest experiences with our birds. That has been really fun. Now I get to share my love of animals with visitors during exhibitions and shows and help to set up new guest experiences interacting with a variety of our different bird species. You would be surprised how many people are afraid of birds until they have an educational experience at a zoo or park and get to know them! I love that part.
