

Lincoln Holt - 44

I was lucky to learn a lot from my first crew leader as a young lineman. Now, when I supervise my crew —inspecting equipment, assigning projects, or holding tailgate safety briefings—I try to give them what they need to succeed each day because I remember what it was like when I was just starting out.

I love being the middleman between the crew and my supervisors because I can report all the good work we're doing to the higher-ups, and I can encourage and update my workers with the feedback I get from management. It's great being out in the field because I still get to roll up my sleeves and do my part to keep projects on track.
